School Budget Cut Reaction Still Apparent

By John P. Sawyer

The school committee has made its budget decisions, and town meeting has approved the bottom-line figure of $12.9 million.

But reaction to what has been cut and what has been kept is still coming in.

"The budget approved by Town Meeting has set a dollar amount to be expended for salaries and another for expenses," says a letter to Andover School Committee Chairman Richard Neal from Stephen C. Jankauskas, president of the Andover Education Association. "We understand your authority to reconsider the allocation of funds within those categories and urge you to do so."

A total of 17 teachers have been cut from the school budget (23 all together, including those cut due to declining enrollment), and it is the loss of teaching staff that drew most concern at Tuesday night's school committee meeting.

The Andover Education Association reminded committee members of their intention to keep as many classroom teachers as possible.

"...We were heartened by your comments and those of other past and present members of the school committee regarding the importance of the classroom teacher in our educational system," wrote Jankauskas. "We believed your committee when it stated over and over again that its top priority would be to maintain as many personnel who had direct contact with children on a day to day basis as possible, at the expense of all other accounts."

"In our opinion, the budget approved by town meeting has not achieved that goal.

We believe that our opinion is shared by many of the townspeople...We ask you to remember your words and to reaffirm your support for your faculty, as we continue to work together to provide the best possible education for the children of Andover during this period of fiscal constraint."

A few of the teachers themselves had something to say.

Jerry Grasso, high school science teacher, noted the number of administrators in the Andover school system as compared to the number of teachers.

He said in the past the school system featured a "wide base of teachers, a smaller group of support personnel and an apex of two or three associate administrators and superintendent."

"During the eighties," he claimed, "the number of students and teachers has not changed significantly from the mid-seventies; however, a number of programs have been cut, the number of support personnel has increased and the apex of the pyramid has become a wide base of supervisors, advisors, associate administrators and their assistants."

Grasso said this change will lead to large class sizes, more discipline problems, less teaching and more students receiving a lower quality education.

Tim Thomas, high school biology teacher, told school committee members that the reduction in high school science staff will be 22 percent (11.5 to 9), while systemwide teacher cuts are at nine percent.

'Special Employee' List Is Expanded

The selectmen this week expanded their list of "special employees" — members of boards, commissions and committees who are entitled to work for the town, even though they serve as volunteer town officials — to include all town boards.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony recently pointed out that selectmen in past years have been inconsistent in designating special employees. That was not only unfair to some town volunteers, he said, but deprived the town of their services.

The special employee rule is part of the state's conflict of interest statutes. Special employees may work for the town unless it conflicts with their work as officials. Volunteers not designated special employees could not work for the town at all.

The committees newly designated as special: Andover Arts Council, Cable Advisory Committee, Community Services Committee, Community Watch Committee, Design Advisory Group, Reuse Committee, School Building Committee, Andover Historical Commission, and Earth Removal Committee.

Directors of the Greater Lawrence Community Action Council and representatives on the Merrimack Valley Planning Commission and Merrimack Valley Regional Transit Authority were also added to the list of special employees.

Those committees that had already been designated as special before this week's action, according to the manager, included: Board of Health, School Committee, Planning Board, Memorial Hall Library trustees, Finance Committee, Cornell Fund trustees, Punchard Free School trustees, and Spring Grove Cemetery trustees.

Also: Zoning Board of Appeals, Board of Registrars, Greater Lawrence Regional School District Committee, Transportation Committee, Conservation Commission, Development and Industrial Commission, Andover Housing Authority, Patriotic Holiday Committee, Towle Fund trustees, and Council on Aging.

Other special employees before this week's vote included the school physician and school dentist, town physician, inspector of animals, constables and game wardens.

Developer Must Alter Plans For Permit

The developer of the Andover Country Club will have to change his plans for the proposed 270-lot subdivision to get the selectmen to renew his gravel removal permit for the development. The permit, originally issued two years ago, expires June 23.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony told the selectmen Monday night that he wants developer Yvon Cormier to put in a road (Haskell Road) in one phase of the subdivision, loam and seed that area, and start building houses. Mahony said he told Cormier he must have the loaming and seeding completed before the selectmen will renew his removal permit.

The developer had planned to clear more of the land before he started putting in streets or houses. But abutters have complained of serious problems with blowing sand at the site since construction began more than two years ago.

And some neighbors fear that no homes will ever be built — that the developer is using the land as a gravel operation.

Building earlier than planned will not solve all the problems at the site, Mahony said, but it will cover two-thirds of the land that has been cleared, stopping the blowing sand. And it will "re-assure people in that area that he does intend to build," the manager added.

"It's a first step," Mahony said. "And how he does it will determine if he can continue excavating."

The selectmen will hold a public hearing to discuss renewing the permit on Monday, June 14.

Utility Permits Approved

After a series of public hearings at Town Hall Monday night, the Board of Selectmen granted several permits to Massachusetts Electric Company and New England Telephone.

The electric company was granted approval to erect one pole with wires and fixtures on the westerly side of Stratford Road, about 105 feet from the corner of Summer Street, to avoid overloading the existing power line; and to lay an underground conduit under old Ballardvale Road to serve the Wyncrest Circle subdivision, now under construction.

Together with the electric company, the telephone company was granted permission to locate new poles along Osgood Street, in line with existing poles, to serve the Physical Sciences plant now under construction; and to lay cable underground along Andover Street to service the new Heritage Lane subdivision, now under construction.

In addition, Bay State Gas Company received permits to excavate at 147 Greenwood Road, North Main Street at Pearson Street, Central Street at Lupine Road, and Lupine Road at the cemetery to repair gas mains; on Lovejoy Road near the intersection of Lowell Street to install a new main gate valve; and at 8 Punchard Ave. to renew gas service.

Road Races Continue Popularity

Road races continue to gain popularity, and the Greater Lawrence Technical School in conjunction with the March of Dimes will run their second annual five-mile race through Andover on Friday, June 4, with the selectmen's approval. The race will begin at 6 p.m.

The selectmen also granted the March of Dimes a one-day beer license to distribute free beer to the runners after the race on the grounds of the West Andover Community Association. The license is for 6 to 9 p.m. only.

Tax Bills Appeals Are Due

Assessor William Russell reminds Andover taxpayers that all property taxes are due to be paid tomorrow, May 7. And property-owners who plan to appeal their new valuations must file their applications for abatements by 4:30 p.m. Friday as well.

Applications received after that 4:30 deadline will automatically be denied, Russell says, because "the assessors have no right to act on applications received after that time."

Property tax bills bearing taxes on Andover's new 100 percent valuations were mailed one month ago.

Aluminum Drive Success

The town aluminum drive run by Andover Recycling, Inc. on Saturday, May 1 was the best ever, but selling the aluminum afterwards was complicated because of a recent change of policy by the town's usual buyer.

The market for foil, including frozen dinner trays, so conscientiously presented in excellent clean condition by many regular donors, has halted, at least for the present. A hasty but determined and successful sorting job was carried out by four Andover Recycling members on the loading dock of the metal salvage company that buys the aluminum. In the process of sorting out only the pure aluminum cans and scraps of siding from the sea of foil, it was discovered that there were also numerous bi-metal cans included.

Aluminum watchers have to be as experienced as edible mushroom finders. It is possible to learn how to identify 100% aluminum cans on sight, but for most donors the magnet test is recommended. Andover Recycling, Inc. thanks all who contributed to the drive. Saving for the next drive has already begun, and townspeople are asked to save foil separately if they wish, in case the market for it opens again. In any case, ample notice will be given if foil is not to be accepted in the next drive.

Left-handed people have an advantage in such fields as tennis, blackjack dealing and major league pitching.

Trip To Playhouse

The Andover-North Andover YMCA is planning a trip to the Charles II Playhouse in Boston on Thursday, May 13, to see "Shear Madness." Set in a cozy cabaret, the play is a spine tickling murder mystery that has left audiences talking about it for days. It has been said to be a giant living game of CLUE and it is "Madness" to miss it. The play has been listed by the Boston Globe Readers' Poll as the best comedy of the year.

The bus will leave the Andover Y at 6:30 p.m. Further information may be obtained by contacting Cathy Dawson at the Andover-North Andover YMCA, Haverhill Street.

Health Board Conducts Blood Pressure Clinics

May is National High Blood Pressure Month. As part of a nationwide focus on high blood pressure, the Andover Board of Health is sponsoring Blood Pressure Screening Clinics on Thursday, May 13, and Friday, May 21.

The clinics, conducted by town nurse, Mary Hamilton, R.N., will be held in the lobby of the Andover Savings Bank, 61 Main St., Andover, from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m.

"I'd like to invite everyone in Andover to attend," said Everett F. Penney, Jr., Andover health director. "Everyone of us probably knows someone who has high blood pressure because it's such a common condition. And when we help people who have high blood pressure to keep it under control, we are helping them to reduce their risk of early death or disability."

Recent studies conducted by the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute indicate that a great deal of progress has been made nationally through the combined efforts of local community high blood pressure programs across the country.

"We are very excited about the positive changes in high blood pressure control on the national level," said Graham Ward, coordinator of the National High Blood Pressure Education Program for the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute. "and we are very pleased that the Andover Board of Health is contributing to making these changes happen."

Andover's clinics re open to the general public, and no appointment is necessary.

To Conduct Runaways Program

The Andover Peer Counseling Project in conjunction with Dr. Leon Somers & Associates is presenting Runaways, a program of drama and discussion, on Wednesday, May 12, in the auditorium of the West Junior High School, Shawsheen Road, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The dramatic presentations will be given by "The Connection" a drama group of teenage Peer Counselors from Andover High School. The performances will depict many problems and situations in families which may lead to a child running away from home.

"The difficulties confronting a family when they accept a runaway in their home will also be discussed.

Dr. Leon Somers, a psychologist of Andover, will facilitate a discussion around these issues. The entire Greater Lawrence community is invited, including teens and parents. There is no admission fee and refreshments will be served.

For more information, contact the Andover Peer Counseling Project at the high school or Dr. Leon Somers' office.

Annual Meeting For Hospice

The first annual meeting for the Hospice of Greater Lawrence will be held Thursday, May 13, at St. Basil's Seminary in Methuen following dinner which will be served at 6:30 p.m.

Linda Kilburn, president of the Hospice Federation of Massachusetts, Inc. and executive director of the Hospice of the Good Shepherd in Newton will relate first-hand experience with the growth of the hospice movement. Reservations may be made by calling the Hospice office.

Chairman Robert Klie of Andover will preside over the business meeting and the election of new board members.

A musical interlude will be provided by Barbara Barlow of Methuen. The dinner is being prepared by volunteers under the direction of Marilyn Bardetti of Andover.

The committee responsible for planning the meeting is chaired by Dan Warner and includes Vivian Davis, Robert Klie, Priscilla Schumm and Maria Quintana.

The Hospice of Greater Lawrence has 16 volunteers in training who will be prepared to give informed and compassionate support to terminally ill patients and their families when the Hospice is able to accept referrals at the end of June.

Rabies Clinic

The Bulger Animal Hospital, North Andover, will sponsor a Rabies Clinic on Saturday, May 8, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Old North Andover Center Fire Station.

There is a charge for each animal. The vaccine for cats lasts one year and should be repeated annually. The dog vaccine should be given to puppies at three to six months of age and then repeated after a year. The vaccine given to dogs after one year of age is good for three years.

Cats should be transported in a box or a pillow case, while dogs should have a choke collar and a sturdy leash.

This is the first in a series of articles about the Andover Village Improvement Society reservations in Andover. AVIS acquires woodlands, green areas, wetlands and riverbanks to preserve their trees, plants, wildlife and scenic beauty. Walking trails are maintained for public use, and all activities consistent with conservation objectives are encouraged.)

Since its formation in 1894, AVIS has been dedicated to "improve and ornament the streets and public grounds of Andover. . . The acquisition of lands for conservation became a major focus though, when Harold Rafton alerted the Society to the desperate need for preservation of land in the face of accelerated development. In a 1955 Townsman, Harold stressed, "Park areas are vital. They can never be replaced once they are gone." Under his guidance a new philosophy evolved. An ongoing policy of land acquisition and preservation had begun—a legacy for Andover's children.

The Shawsheen and its banks had long been a favorite recreational spot for the citizens of Andover. It was immortalized by Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes who remembered it fondly from school days at Phillips Academy—

A Part Of The Showcase Will Be An Art Experience

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Home decorating buffs who attend a designer showcase in North Andover later this month to admire the work of local decorators may be surprised to find an "art experience" waiting for them, tucked away in one part of the showcase.

From May 18 through May 22, two cottages on the 40-acre Horace Irvine Estate at 1046 Great Pond Road, North Andover will be transformed into the showcase, as a fund-raiser for Lawrence General Hospital. The showcase will feature the work of a different decorator in each room, united by the theme of "Country Charm."

Left with one room, an upstairs hallway, too small to decorate, the sponsors asked Andover artist David Sullivan to hang some of his paintings in the room.

"I made a counter-proposal," Sullivan says. His alternative: "I would like to take the space and try to present it as art, to create an art experience."

His aim is to make visitors experience the small room purely as a space, as a shape. "Any time you go into a room, you are walking into a shape," the artist explains, "but you don't think about it very much, particularly in our culture." An Eskimo's igloo or an Indian's teepee are more clearly shapes than the homes we live in, he points out.

Sullivan plans to paint the walls and sloping ceiling one shade of gray, and then make sure a "sheet of paper" gets into the hands of every visitor as they enter the room. The paper will "review the nature of the person's entry into the room, and talk about their possible exit."

"If you read it while you're in the space, then you can't exit in complete unconsciousness," he says. And consciousness is what he's after. "As our society becomes more and more technical, there's less and less that's thought about. This is one aspect of life that could be thought about."

Visitors will have to pass through the hallway at least twice to enter upstairs bedrooms in the show house, and some may find it "sort of annoying to have to think about it," Sullivan notes.

"I would like them to drop the annoyance and enjoy the experience. It should be a simple and beautiful thing. As children, we all liked being in playhouses, and creating our own spaces. It's just a matter of being decidedly conscious of the particular space you're in."

Sullivan's idea will be seen "in an interesting context," he adds — a decorators' showcase, where the other rooms will be filled with objects "drawing consciousness to themselves, and away from the shape."

"I didn't want to exhibit paintings there for that reason — you should be conscious of paintings in themselves, not as part of a room or as an accessory to anything."

The contrast will be "quite extreme," he believes. "I'm interested in seeing it. It should be a nice mix."

The artist happily admits that he has yet to work out the details of his plan — what shade of gray paint to use, what the paper will say, where the papers will be placed so they will not draw attention away from the space. "I like the fact that I don't know everything yet about what I'm going to do."

"And I have had failures," he adds, laughing.

A quiet man, Sullivan speaks with enthusiasm and intensity about his work and his ideas. He has been an artist for 20 years, and for the past five he has been working "on the fringes" of what he hopes to express at the designers' showcase.

"My concern is perception, and the relationship between perceived information and thought," he says. "It's the relation between an image and the viewer that's interested me."

Lately he has been working in oils on large canvases, creating paintings that "turn out to be totally representational paintings that look totally abstract."

Sketches of a work in the earliest stages, done in Magic Markers ("I like that — I wish they were magic!"), show a tangle of blue lines on a bright white background with touches of red and yellow among the blue, all laid over a lightly-drawn grid that will remain in the finished painting.

In close-up, it seems totally abstract. Yet when the viewer steps back a few feet, the image of a landscape clearly emerges.

Of this and his other abstract landscapes, scenes of earth and trees and water done in subtle shades of blue and green, Sullivan says, "The beauty rests with the looking, with the process."

He has been striving to make his paintings more "aggressive" — forcing the viewer's attention where he wants it, on "the whole activity" in a painting. "I was doing silkscreens, and they worked very well, but almost as soon as I put something down, someone would skip right over it."

Oils seem to be more assertive. And he wants to push the viewer farther and farther back before the representational image becomes apparent.

The use of subdued color is also important in his paintings, and Sullivan says the gray he plans to use at the showcase is "very much in keeping with what I deal with in painting."

"When you paint something red or blue or yellow, it's there, it can't shift on you. You've trapped it. Words and names trap things. I'm really excited about dealing with things in an untrapped state, where everything shifts. It's part of a larger process."

In nature, even color shifts. Sullivan says: "Last week I was looking at a very yellow forsythia blossom. And I found that when you really start looking at it, there isn't any yellow. You see greenish shades, and pale bluish-gray lights, but the yellow is not present anywhere. Perhaps it's in us."

Sullivan has translated some of his ideas about color and space into the North Main Street home where he and his wife, Camellia Sullivan, have lived for nearly all of the 15 years they've been in Andover. Built in 1890, "the house as space interests us a lot."

He had the old roof razed and designed a new roof to top his third-floor studio. He built a wall-to-wall bookcase and painted the floor in a checkerboard pattern in a small music room. Artworks are everywhere.

The Sullivans are currently working on the last of a cluster of three small rooms. The walls of a dining room are painted a deep purple, a living room is painted a soft, browned gray that was originally intended as a primer coat. Camellia Sullivan has just finished stripping a flowered wallpaper from the last room, revealing a motley of pale green paint and white plaster.

The other two rooms and a bright orange hallway can be seen from each of the three rooms. Sullivan points out how the colors of each room play against one another, and how the deep tone of the purple room brings out the colors in a pottery collection, earth tones that are ordinarily seen as "non-colors."

While deciding what color to paint the last room, the Sullivans agree that neither would object to leaving it as it is: "I kind of like it this way," Camellia Sullivan says.

Sullivan was originally a partner in the Andover Gallery of Fine Arts on North Main Street when it opened in 1969, but left after a year because he found he "couldn't paint and be involved in the gallery at the same time." His former partner, Howard Yezerski, continues to run the gallery.

He has exhibited often at the gallery over the years. "Of all the galleries where he has shown his work, the Andover Gallery has been 'the most exciting for me,'" Sullivan says, "because of the direct interaction. With other places, it sometimes feels like I'm taking my work off to some unknown place and leaving it there."

Sullivan is an award-winning artist with ribbons and prizes and newspaper clippings honoring his work. But he stopped entering competitions some time ago. "That did enable me to get going, to establish a reputation," he says. "But the need for verification is always so terrible."

A native of Stoughton, he attended the University of New Hampshire for three and a-half years ("it seemed pointless to finish"), where he majored in philosophy, but emerged a working artist.

"I thought I'd be a philosopher," Camellia Sullivan laughs from the next room, and her husband laughs, too.

"In truth," he admits, "I've never given it up." And the truth of David Sullivan, painter and thinker, is thus revealed.

Lawrence General Hospital's designer showcase, "Country Charm", will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 18-22 at the Irvine Estate, 1046 Great Pond Road, North Andover. Tickets are available at the door, or in advance in Andover at Macartney's, Yankee Lady, Gardenia, the Andover Shop, Henry Bear's Park, Limited Editions, the Andover Bookstore, and Pappagallo's. For more information, contact the hospital.

Andover Girl Vies For Miss Massachusetts Crown

Carol Loscutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Loscutt, Jr., of 166 Jenkins Road, Andover, recently won the 1982 'Miss Merrimack Valley' title at the annual contest held at Methuen High School.

The 19 year-old brunette, hazel-green eyed model and a sophomore at New York University was crowned by Deborah Salois of North Andover, the 1981 'Miss Merrimack Valley' and Miss Massachusetts.

Carol won the title from among Merrimack Valley entrants from Andover, North Andover, Lowell, Lawrence, Methuen, Burlington and Woburn. The contest, which must adhere to Miss America rules (since the Miss America crown is the ultimate goal of contestants) is based on the traditional judges' interviews, talent contest, swim suit and evening gown contests.

For the talent segment of the contest, Carol performed a musical vaudeville act, acting and dancing 'Mr. Cellophane' from the Broadway musical, 'Chicago.' She donned baggy pants, vest, tie, floppy shoes and derby hat for the performance.

For the swim suit competition, she wore a simply-fashioned, blue bathing suit with a 'V' neckline. For the evening gown finale, Carol chose a full, white, floor-length dress, with a fitted, beaded, 'V' neck bodice, thinly strapped at the shoulders.

Carol is a graduate of the Walnut Hill School and School for the Performing Arts in Natick, where she studied theater, voice, mime, dance, acting and appeared in numerous stage productions and solo concerts during her four years at the school.

As a youngster, Carol performed with the Boston Children's Theater. Her last local appearance was with the Garet Players in January, 1982, in their performance of 'Godspell.'

At N.Y.U., she is studying fashion advertising and theatre and hopes for a career in the performing arts.

As 'Miss Merrimack Valley,' Carol will go on to the Miss Massachusetts contest to be held in New Bedford in June, and then, if successful, on to the Miss America Pageant in September.

Carol has a sister, Holly, of Andover, and a brother, James III, of Rockport.

In 1933 Frances Perkins became the first woman Secretary of Labor and the first woman cabinet officer, according to a publication of the U. S. Department of Labor. She was also the first Secretary of Labor to not belong to a union and the first to have a college education.

Ridge.

The nation's air a hundred miles away?" (1878)

Excerpts from AVIS History of Conservation.

Most of this reservation was purchased from the Chester D. Abbotts in 1963. As AVIS already owned the Vale Reservation it afforded a continuous stretch of public land from Central Street to Ballardvale, preserving the west side of the river.

The reservation is easily reached by taking Central Street to the Abbott Bridge crossing of the river. Enter between the railroad overpass and the bridge. After crossing a meadow and brook, the trail follows the river's edge for some distance. Shortly after crossing a stile, one comes to the end of the reservation, but the trail continues on through AVIS's Vale Reservation to Ballardvale, about one and half miles in all.

The Shawsheen River has long been appreciated by enthusiastic sportspersons for canoeing and fishing. It rises as a quiet little meadow stream in Bedford and eventually flows into the Merrimack River in Lawrence. One can easily put in off Dale Street in Ballardvale and canoe downstream through this winding, seemingly remote area of wilderness, stopping at the Abbott Bridge or traversing the rapids under it and going on to a dam farther downstream. Good canoeing is also available upstream from the Ballardvale dam for several miles.

Each spring AVIS sponsors a canoe race between the bridge and Ballardvale. This year it will be May 8.

Waterbirds nest along the river's banks, as evidenced by the many old nests, and now ducks and red-winged blackbirds are vying for territories. Muskrats inhabit the river and their holes can be seen when the water level is low. Painted turtles sun themselves on logs and use the grassy islands on which to bury their eggs in summer.

Richard Eldred is the warden in charge of this reservation and should be contacted if groups want to plan activities here. AVIS maps of Andover and trail maps of the reservations are available for a nominal charge at Memorial Hall Library and several local stores.

Steam locomotives may return because of the high cost of oil. The ACE 3000 has a two-stage burning process in which the coal is burned to produce gas; the gas is then burned to heat water. The thermal efficiency is 15 percent as compared to a 20 percent efficiency for diesel locomotives, according to Massachusetts Audubon.

Elected State Leader

Cheryl L. Morse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Morse, 8 Marion Ave., was recently installed as the Grand Worthy Advisor of the State of Massachusetts of the International Order of the Rainbow for Girls.

The Grand Installation was held at the Civic Center in Springfield at the close of the Grand Assembly Session. Morse will be Acting Supreme Faith at Supreme Assembly Sessions in Charleston, W. Va., July 25-28.

She has been an active member of Andover Assembly No. 115 for six years and has held all but three stations as an officer.

During her year as Grand Worthy Advisor she plans to visit all 99 assemblies in Massachusetts and to visit New Hampshire, Maine, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Vermont, Canada, New Jersey, Michigan, West Virginia, Tennessee, California and Maryland.

Morse will graduate Andover High School in June. She has always been active in music and, after a year of travel to fulfill the responsibilities of her office, will attend the Hartt School of Music at the University of Hartford in Connecticut in September, 1983 to study music performance.

Seminar

"Financial Strategies for the Eighties" is the title of a new Financial Planning Seminar to be given May 6 at the Sheraton Rolling Green Inn and Conference Center in Andover at 7:30 p.m. by Mark A. Merishon, local representative of Investors Diversified Services, the nationwide financial services firm.

The seminar will cover how to make financial decisions in the context of a total financial plan, according to Merishon, and will discuss money management strategies such as tax-deferral and growth and tax-sheltered investments, including Individual Retirement

Accounts (IRAs).

"Financial success to many people has been accompanied by the negative impact of inflation," Merishon explained. "Inflation has pushed many people into higher tax brackets at increased rates of taxation." The Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 has reduced the impact of federal income tax, Merishon said, but the new tax law does not affect many other taxes

The Andover Department of Community Services will offer an afternoon playground program at Bancroft School for children ages four to six beginning Monday, June 28, from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

This comprehensive preschool program will offer arts and crafts, nature walks and storytelling, as well as give the children an opportunity to meet and learn how to play with a variety of children their own age. Chiropractic and Sciatica Sciatica (pain radiating from the back to the buttock and down the back of the leg), is an uncomfortable and physically inconvenient condition. It arises from irritation to the sciatic nerve which exits the spine in the lumbosacral region. Because spinal misalignments, muscular imbalance, and poor postural habits all cause sciatica, chiropractic adjustments can often-times correct the cause thereby eliminating the discomfort and stopping progressive nerve damage.

Campaign To Curb Teen Drinking, Driving Begins

Each year hundreds of Massachusetts teenagers are killed or seriously injured in automobile accidents, and the majority of those accidents involve a teenager who has been drinking. Many of these accidents occur during the busy high school prom season in May and June.

To help prevent teenagers from getting into trouble with alcohol during the prom season, the Mass. Department of Public Health's Division of Alcoholism announced the beginning of a statewide public education campaign during May on the subject of teenage drinking and driving.

The campaign is being co-sponsored by the Mass. Council on Alcoholism, the Alcoholism Services Association, the New England Broadcasters Association and the Mass. Secondary School Administrators Association. In addition, the Division of Alcoholism's eight alcohol abuse prevention centers will be working with local school systems to establish educational programs in local high schools.

All-Wagner Concert By Philharmonic

The Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra will present its final concert of the current season at the Andover West Junior High School auditorium, Shawsheen Road, on Sunday afternoon, May 16, at 3:30 p.m.

The program will consist entirely of works by the great Bayreuth master, Richard Wagner, including the Flying Dutchman Overture, the Siegfried Idyll, the Prelude and Love-death from "Tristan and Isolde" and the Prelude from "Die Meistersinger von Nuernberg." Wagner's music, composed essentially for the theater as opera, or "music-drama," to use the term he, himself, coined, enjoys frequent performance in the concert hall as well, due to the unique symphonic instrumentation which suits it to purely orchestral performance. The Philharmonic's usual complement of players will be augmented to accommodate Wagner's more demanding musical requirements.

For this special event, Nicholas Van Slyck, the Philharmonic's permanent music director and conductor, returns to the podium after an enforced absence which precluded him from conducting the first four concerts of the current series.

Full information regarding this concert can be obtained by addressing the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Society, Inc. P.O. Box 410, Andover, Ma 01810. Tickets will be available at the door.

Local League Members At Conference

Judy Medler and Susan Dennett of the League of Women Voters of Andover will be among the 200 delegates attending the biennial council of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts at Worcester on Wednesday, May 12. In addition, Joyce Robinson, Region IV Field Service Consultant; Susan Shaer, program vice president; Virginia Cascino, treasurer; and Dana Duxbury, program chairperson for committees on solid waste, land use and natural resources, will attend as the state league budget and program emphasis are decided.

Highlights of the meeting will include an announcement of new league positions on legalized casino gambling and health; a luncheon address by Kirk Scharfenberg, deputy editorial page editor of The Boston Globe, on the role of the media in elections; and the kickoff of local league involvement with the three gubernatorial debates being sponsored by the league in September and October.

Medler, as president-elect of the Andover League, emphasized the importance of this meeting to the local league. Annually, representatives from Andover join with representatives from the other 100 leagues in Massachusetts to set direction for the statewide organization. This opportunity for grassroots decision making is an essential aspect of the league process. The league finds that volunteers who make the decisions are more dedicated, and the league members who study, testify and lobby, as well as those who perform management functions, are all volunteers.

On Committee

Harry Axelrod of the Sheraton Inn, Andover, has been named chairman of the legislative committee of the Massachusetts Hotel-Motel Association announced Charles Popper, Sonesta Hotel, Cambridge, president.

Playground Program Planning Underway

The Department of Community Services is busily preparing the annual summer playground program which many Andover children enjoy every summer.

The 1982 program is scheduled to begin Monday, June 28, with playground staff supervising at Ballardvale, South School, Bancroft, West Elementary and Sanborn School. Highlights will be the weekly special events which will include a puppet show, two amusement park trips, Peanut Carnival, Good Sports Day, Sand Castle Day at Cranes Beach in Ipswich, possibly an overnight campout and the Andy 500 playground preliminaries. Park leaders will contribute their talents in arts and crafts, sports leadership and more to make a fun-packed playground program.

There will be no playground at Shawsheen since the school is now an administrative building and would be a dangerous place for a playground. Children who attended the Shawsheen playground will now attend the West Elementary playground. This year parks will be open at 8:30 a.m. instead of 9 a.m. and close at the regular time of 1 p.m. Parents are asked to make a note of this time change.

Another change of hours will be the extension of two playground, Bancroft and West, to 3 p.m. to determine interest in afternoon playgrounds. Last year children paid on a per activity basis. This year a nominal activity fee will be charged when the child registers for the playground. This fee will allow the child to participate without any additional fees in all in-town special playground events, bus transportation to and from each playground event and participation in weekly special craft as well as other arts and crafts projects. Children can be signed up for the summer playground program during the summer registration set for June 16 or at the playground.

Solar Group To Meet Wednesday

Merrimack Valley Solar Energy Association free monthly program will be held Wednesday, May 12, at 7:30 p.m. in Room L4 of the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical School, River Road, Andover.

William Kurth, a solar engineer, will talk about photovoltaics. He works for Solarex Corporation, a producer of P.V. panels and was involved in the Beverly High School solar voltaic project. Following the presentation, Kurth will answer questions. Refreshments will be served. For further information, contact Julia Morse.

Sisterhood Planning Luncheon

Television personality Frank Avruch will be featured speaker at a luncheon of The Sisterhood of Temple Emmanuel to be held Wednesday, May 19, 11:30 a.m., at the Temple.

Reservations can be made by contacting Janet Kovner or Anne Goldstein.

One of the most popular and permanent fixtures on the New England television scene, Avruch is currently a featured personality on WCVB-TV, Channel 5. As host of the popular weekend classic films series 'The Great Entertainment,' he talks about the particular films and its stars. His unique presentation is now in its eighth year.

Avruch's informal style of interviewing and his keen awareness of the arts and community organizations in the area make him an ideal choice for co-host on the station's innovative community/public affairs program, 'Sunday Open House.'

While working at WHDH-TV, Avruch launched one of the landmarks of his professional career. As star of the highly successful syndicated series 'Bozo The Clown,' he brought the famed character to Asia and South America, entertaining in those areas and producing documentaries that were eventually distributed by Unicef to countries around the world.

Residents Assist TV Auction

Area residents who are serving as Auction Week team Captains are Pat Dickson of Andover, bid taker captain.

Clown Town To Be At West

The Clowns Are Coming!

It's almost time for the largest Andona affair of the year — Clown Town! Back in January members of Andona Society began preparing for Clown Town to be staged at West Elementary School, May 15, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., rain or shine.

Children will have the opportunity to be made up with typical clown makeup, photos, don a clown hat, purchase a favorite hand puppet and get right into the big top atmosphere of the day.

Games, amusements, rides and ponies will be available all day for their enjoyment.

There will be a cake raffle at the bakery table; a fresh fruit cup will be featured at the ice cream booth; the hot dog and hamburger booth will have a new addition of sausage subs with onions and peppers and Syrian salad subs will be at the Hobo Kitchen.

The Big Top Show this year will feature the Shakespeare Brothers who will do a "Variety of Acts," juggling, mime, puppetry and stilt walking, in the West Elementary Auditorium at 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from any Andona member, Thompson's or Liggetts.

Chairpersons are Jane Batchelder, Mitzi Norton, Jean Prugh and Joanne Viator.

Harvard Krokodiloes

The singing Harvard Krokodiloes will highlight an evening of dinner and music at the Pingree School, South Hamilton, on Saturday, May 8. The Pingree School Parents Committee will sponsor the evening for the benefit of the scholarship fund.

Now a group of 12, the Krokodiloes was originally formed by a quartet of Harvard undergraduates in 1946. Their purpose remains the same today—to sing a cappella and in close harmony while interjecting their performance with the spirit of good fellowship and humor. The result of a 36-year history is repertoire of jazz, classical, popular, barbershop, sacred music, swing, romantic ballads and Broadway favorites. The public is welcome to enjoy a rare visit by this extraordinary group.

Children To Conduct Benefit

As a part of their Lenten-Easter Church School study theme, the children of the Ballard Vale United Church have accepted as their mission outreach: Heifer Project International which has been sharing livestock and training with needy people in this nation and around the world. Churches of all faiths have been supporting the work of Heifer Project International for three decades.

It is their hope to raise $30 to send a pair of rabbits, a rich source of protein in many parts of the world. Each Sunday morning the children donate some of their offering to Heifer. This past Sunday the Youth Fellowship voted to give a portion of the money raised at their car/dog wash on May 22 to the Heifer project. The money for this mission project was dedicated during the Children's Day Service on May 23.

The church will mark the fifth Sunday of Easter at this week's worship service. The preaching theme is "Bearing Good Fruit."

Mother's Day and the Festival of the Christian Home will be noted.

Church school is at 9:30 a.m. for children, youth and adults, coffee hour is at 10:30 a.m. and worship at 11 a.m. The youth fellowships will not meet in order that the youth can be with families on Mother's Day.

Dramatists To Present Program

Judith Black, dramatist and bible storyteller, and folklorist, Penina Adelman, are combining their talents for a dramatic presentation on Friday, May 7, at Temple Emanuel

"Conscience is the inner voice that warns us somebody may be looking." Mencken of Merrimack Valley, 101 West Forest St., Lowell.

On May 8 an International Saturday Night will be held at the temple. World travelers who have been willing to share their experiences and expertise with exotic dishes have planned this event. Craft displays and music will also make up the program. There will be a small admission charge.

Members and non-members are invited to join the festivities beginning at 8 p.m. For further information, call Helen Rubinoff or Jan Rooney.

Selectmen View Video Game Policy

A request from the Towne Deli, 207 North Main St., for a license to install three video games reminded the selectmen this week that they've been planning to come up with a policy to regulate such games in Andover for some months now.

The board Monday night voted to table the deli's license request until they have devised a new licensing policy to govern video games.

They will base their policy on recommendations from the Police and Fire departments, Planning Board and building inspector, Chairman Norma Gammon indicated. Gammon said safety and overcrowding in buildings are among the board's main concerns.

Installing three games at the Towne Deli would amount to "more than a sideline to the existing business," Selectman Donn Byrne said Monday. "I'm not ready to grant a license for multiple machines at the moment."

Byrne moved to table the request until the selectmen could hear reports from town departments.

There may be a zoning bylaw to regulate video games in Andover's future, the chairman noted. That would have to be developed by the planning board and approved by town meeting.

In the meantime, the selectmen, as the licensing board for the town, have the power to license the games under the category of automatic amusement devices (which also covers more traditional items, such as pinball machines and juke boxes).

While granting licenses in the past, the board has expressed concern that video games like Space Invaders and Pac-Man will lure young people into restaurants and encourage loitering. They have also said they would not like to see an arcade devoted to automatic amusements open in Andover.

A group of Boy Scouts from North Essex Council Troop 77 who were observing Monday night's meeting offered their comments on video games.

"I love them," one young scout said. But he admitted that he often spends all his allowance on the games, adding, "My dad thinks they should ban them."

November Club Holds Election

The annual meeting of the November Club took place at the Lanam Club on Monday, April 26, following a gala Spring Luncheon.

Mrs. John Bangert, chairwoman, Mrs. Edward Erickson and Mrs. John McClement of the nominating committee presented the proposed slate of officers for the year 1982-83 as follows:

Hats Off At Andover Historical Society

The Brownies of Troop 305 were on parade last week at the Andover Historical Society. The girls created their own bonnets before visiting the hat display that is presently on exhibit. The visit will help the Brownies earn their first badge: the new Spar and Spindle badge. Their troop leader is Margery Clark. Gardeners Landscape Library

The Four Seasons Garden Club of Andover has just completed a major landscaping project at the Memorial Hall Library. To enhance the library's new entrance for the handicapped, the club has carved out curving borders filled with shrubs which will be accented later in the season with flowering annuals.

The new entrance, installed a year ago, consists of a long concrete ramp leading from Main Street, next to the gas station, to the children's room. From there, patrons of the library can use the elevator to reach the main floor. It is a much-needed addition to the library's services, useful to the elderly and parents with strollers, as well as the handicapped.

The construction of the ramp, however, cut a concrete swathe through the side garden of the library. To screen both the ramp and the adjacent gas station, the Four Seasons Garden Club's Civic Beautification Committee, chaired by Virginia Begg who is assisted by committee members Charlene Anderson, Diane Butler and Barbara Webster, selected evergreen shrubs which will do the job of screening as well as beautify the area.

The committee set Saturday, May 1, as planting day. Working for weeks in advance to design the area and purchase plant material, on planting day the committee enlisted the aid of club members Diane Arserio, Pam Bartlett, Judy Bernier, Mary Lionette, Emily Saliby, who is president of the club, and Jo Schallop. Help was also provided by Stanley Anderson, Eric Begg, and members of St. Robert Bellarmine's confirmation class who performed this community service as partial fulfillment of the requirements for confirmation. In addition, members of Nu Phi Kappa fraternity at Merrimack College, Scott Butler, Tom Caraceni and Rick Leather assisted. These students are Chris Arserio, Matt Chinchillo, Katie Dolan, Janie Flynn, Joanne Martin, Lorna Turgiss, and Caroline Viscosi.

Devoting all day Saturday to the task, Four Seasons Garden Club members and their helpers dug, planted, weeded, mulched and edged the area, volunteering their labor to the library and the town. Also contributing to the project were two local businesses, Pinewood Gardens and Bob Engel and Son, who generously gave a discount on purchases of shrubs and bark mulch for landscaping the library.

The staff of Memorial Hall Library and the Four Seasons Garden Club invite Andover residents to view and enjoy the newly landscaped area. The library is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday 9-5, and Sunday 2-5. It is closed weekends in the summer.

Rollins Nearing Construction Of Town's Cable TV System

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Rollins Cablevision is now less than a month away from obtaining its final license, and about two months from starting construction of Andover's cable television system, according to the company's local attorney.

The Board of Selectmen this week granted Rollins a two-month extension on its provisional license, but Andover Atty. Richard Asoian said yesterday he expects the company to ask for its final 15-year license by the first week of June.

The Atlanta, Georgia-based company would then be ready to begin construction within two to four weeks, Asoian said.

"They are ready to go," he explained. "The final license has been drafted. We are very, very close."

Rollins was recently granted special permits from the Zoning Board of Appeals to build a tower at the town landfill, located off Chandler Road, and an earth station (satellite reception dish) at Merrimack College.

However, company officials decided to wait for the 20-day appeal period on that decision to end before requesting their final license, Asoian said. That period allows abutters to contest the ZBA decision.

Rollins requested the two-month extension from the selectmen for that reason, the attorney said. But he added that the company will probably seek its final license "in about two weeks."

Asoian stressed that the request for an extension was not a delay on Rollins' part, because the town granted the provisional license — which expired this week — for only six months.

Most towns grant provisional licenses for nine months to a year, he said, and it is "not unusual" for the company to need more than six months to prepare for the final license application.

Rollins officials have said that once construction begins, it will take about ten months to completely install the town-wide cable television service.

Kimberley A. Cronin

Will Seek State Rep. Position

Kimberley A. Cronin, in announcing her candidacy for State Representative, cited several problems she hopes will be discussed in the campaign. "Massachusetts must act to diminish the increasing economic barriers to higher education," Cronin stated. "Our taxpayers can no longer tolerate paying more to put a student through our state universities than it would cost to send them through our foremost private institutions. This is particularly true when decreased federal aid is causing even upper middle class families to question the affordability of college." Cronin stated that her preliminary research into this area has caused her to seek the assistance of college financial aid offices in an effort to initiate corrective legislation for the next session.

"As the campaign progresses, I expect to address statewide issues such as taxes,

New Junior High May Open In September

The new Doherty Junior High School may be available for use at the start of the next school year, marking progress of the project one year ahead of schedule, according to School Committeeman Donald Robb, representative on the school building committee.

The progress of the Doherty and other topics were discussed by schoolmen Tuesday night during time allotted for "future directions."

Robb said the Memorial Wing of the new junior high, which includes the old East Junior High auditorium, would not be available next fall even if the rest of the new building is.

The East Junior High wings are scheduled to be turned over to the town once Doherty Junior High is ready. The East wings could be used to eventually house town and school offices.

Other items noted by schoolmen to be considered for "future directions" were elementary school curriculum, secondary school organization in light of the school building program, fine-tuning the recently adopted school budget, input into the reuse committee, and possibly reinstating the demographics committee (to see "just where the town is going" — Michael Giammusso).

Schools Superintendent Kenneth Seifert maintained that a financial model must be worked on so that the school system knows what's ahead for the future.

Harriet Ahouse

Will Be Candidate For Rep.

Harriet Ahouse announced this week her candidacy for State Representative - 17th Essex District. She is seeking the Democratic nomination for the seat being vacated by Representative Gerald M. Cohen.

"In my three and one-half years working at the State House, I have done virtually everything an elected member does—except vote," Ahouse said.

"My legislative experience, and the experience and knowledge I have gained in ten years of involvement and leadership in the Greater Lawrence community, have given me the preparation I need to be an effective voting member of the State Legislature," she continued.

Harriet Ahouse has worked as a legislative and budget research analyst in the offices of the House Minority Leader, the House Committee on Taxation and for the senator from Danvers/Salem. She has ex-

Eight Seek Position On Housing Board

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Eight candidates have applied for a position on the Andover Housing Authority to fill the seat vacated by Thomas R. Wallace, who has retired after nearly 30 years on the authority.

The selectmen will appoint the successful candidate to finish out Wallace's term, which expires in 1984.

The applicants are Mary T. Bolduc of 14 Brechin Terrace, Jere J. Carroll of 2 Cottonwood Circle, Diane L. Chadwell of 115 Main St., Madalyn S. Donahue of 4 Longwood Drive, William R. Hickey, Jr. of 6 Stratford Road, Dorothy B. Lawlor of 131 North St., Mary Jane Powell of 31 Cheever Circle, and Dorothy M. Volker of 13 Washington Ave.

The selectmen will interview each candidate briefly during their regular meeting next Monday night, May 10, beginning at 7 p.m. at Town Hall, the board indicated Monday night.

Members of the housing authority are elected to five-year terms, and serve without pay.

The housing authority oversees 176 units of senior citizens' housing and 56 units of low-income family housing in Andover, in 30 buildings located at Memorial Circle, Chestnut Court, Grandview Terrace and Frye Circle. A new 40-unit, $1.365 million project for the elderly and handicapped is now under construction at Grandview Terrace.

Editorial Comment

As A Matter Of Courtesy

As the 1982 annual town meeting is assigned to the record books and permanent files, there is a desire to place a footnote to the proceedings urging that a return to courtesy and a little calm be applied to future sessions.

It may not be a serious matter, but this year, as well as in other recent annual sessions, there were times when one wondered if the whole affair weren't being underwritten by tranquilizer manufacturers.

While participation in municipal affairs is openly granted through residence in Andover and its retention of the town meeting form of government, it does not seem absolutely necessary to get so involved as to holler, shout and get downright upset, nasty and discourteous during the proceedings as was the case on some occasions this year.

A typical example is that of the resident who chastised the moderator, indicating that he had told the voters to go to a place which was much hotter than Memorial Auditorium where it was stifling. In defense of the moderator it should be noted that he made no such assignment, but only explained his position on a rather ticklish situation and was within his rights in doing so. Not only his rights, but defending the rights of the voters and maintaining an orderly town meeting according to statute.

But the particular comment, along with other actions within the town meeting, was exemplary of the occasional unnecessary outbursts.

Time was when some commentary during the course of the town meeting was offered in a jocular vein. On other occasions, such as the time the highway department was asked to predict the total snowfall for next winter, offered some comic relief to the serious business at hand.

Frankly, it would be nice to get back to that type of a meeting.

Town meeting was designed to offer residents of a community the opportunity to determine their needs and municipal expenses in a democratic fashion. In its original form it was a day's entertainment combined with business. And, while its continued use as a viable manner in operating a multi-million dollar corporation may be debated, as long as it is applied to Andover's municipal direction, it should be accepted that controversial issues can be settled easily through more neighborly debate.

We are, after all, neighbors within a community, discussing what is felt to be best for the town. It's not the halls of congress or the state house drawing from a wide spectrum of orators or varying feelings on particular issues. What is accomplished is ultimately what the majority feels best for this single community.

While particular feelings for particular issues may not agree with others within the forum, everyone should be entitled to the accommodation of presenting their arguments.

It's just a matter of courtesy.

In the future, employment of that trait will go a long way toward returning the atmosphere of town meeting to a more pleasant municipal experience.

The Inverted Pyramid

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

We all know that the shape of the great pyramids in Egypt have withstood the pressures of time. Most successful organizations represent this design.

For the years 1960-70 the Andover School System has followed this design. A wide base of teachers, a smaller group of support personnel and an apex of two or three associate administrators and superintendent.

During the 80s the number of students and teachers has not changed significantly from the mid-70s; however, a number of programs have been cut, the number of support personnel has increased and the apex of the pyramid has become a wide base of supervisors, advisors, associate administrators and their assistants.

The pyramid is now inverted. Once again the base is being narrowed. For the 1982-83 school year, 22 school teachers and two high school librarians have been cut. No administrators or assistant administrators have been cut. A change to a six-day cycle of class periods at the secondary level will decrease science instruction by 25 percent. This change is not reasonable during this age.

What happens when a school organization pyramid becomes inverted:

1. Large classes
2. More discipline problems
3. Less teaching
4. More students receiving a lower quality education.

The Andover National Achievement score has been the highest in the area. Which group in the

Puzzled

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

I am both puzzled and upset by the current legislative schemes to divert more state aid to the towns "hardest hit" by Prop. 2½. Prop. 2½ came about because many towns were spending too much and thus taxing too heavily. The towns which are the "hardest hit" by Prop. 2½ are the very reason for its enactment.

To support legislation which will largely offset the impact of Prop. 2½ by a distorted state aid formula rewards the towns which are the principal causes of Prop. 2½ in the first place and decreases the state aid due to other towns.

It is my understanding that the bulk of state aid is essentially driven by an inverse per capita wealth formula. To shift more state aid to the "hardest hit" towns is not rational in light of Prop. 2½ and is just plain unfair to the taxpayers of the other communities.

JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WEEKLY SPECIAL

White House fears Egypt will move closer to SovietsBy Jack Anderson and Joe Spear

WASHINGTON -- The Reagan administration is worried about Egyptian President Mubarak. State Department and White House officials are afraid he'll move Egypt away from the United States and Israel and snuggle up to the other Arab states and the Soviet Union.

Because of this, the administration is putting heavy pressure on Congress to increase military and economic aid to Egypt. In other words, the White House is hoping to buy Egypt's allegiance with greenbacks.

Last week, the State Department sent two under secretaries up to Capitol Hill to lobby members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The two envoys from Foggy Bottom were Lawrence Eagleburger and James Buckley.

The Pentagon has also been having its errand boys knocking on doors of influential members of Congress. And even the Egyptian ambassador, Ashraf Ghorbal, got into the act. He called Congressman Bob Shamansky, D-Ohio, personally to try to talk him out of his opposition to the Egyptian aid increase. Unfortunately for the ambassador, he had to cut the call short to take a long-distance call from Cairo. Shamansky still opposes the aid package.

What all the uproar is about is a military-economic aid package of more than $2 billion. This may not seem like such a big deal in terms of past expenditures for foreign aid. But the Reagan administration has cut domestic programs sharply, and many members of Congress can't see why Uncle Sam should be so openhanded to a foreign country. That's why the White House has felt it necessary to unleash the old Soviet bogeyman. The administration apparently figures it can scare Congress into voting for the Egyptian aid package.

There are two things that bother Congress about the proposed increase in aid to Egypt. One is that it would be in outright grants, whereas the administration's proposed increase in aid to Israel would be only for loans.

The other objection is that Egypt wastes the military and economic aid it's already getting. For example, some critics complain that Egypt uses aid money from the United States to support state subsidies on such products as gasoline.

Over the long run, critics of aid to Egypt are afraid we'll turn the country into another Iran by flooding it with money it doesn't need and doesn't know how to spend.

CARD FRAUD: Have you ever really looked at your Social Security card? It says right on it that it is not to be used for identification purposes.

But the fact is that the federal government uses Social Security cards as a basic means of identification for government benefits. And this has led to a widespread racket in counterfeit Social Security cards.

The inspector general of the Health and Human Services Department recently dispatched a report to a White House task force looking into fraud and abuse in federal programs. The internal report notes that "Social Security fraud and abuse is a government-wide problem."

In fact, the report said that safeguards against fraud simply have not kept pace with the schemes being cooked up to get money from Uncle Sam with phony Social Security cards. More than a hundred of these cases are currently under investigation.

A big problem, we are told, is the theft of blank cards stolen from the Social Security Administration.

Here's what the report to the White House has to say about this: "Controls over the printing, distribution and storage of blank cards were found to be totally ineffective."

As it happens, many of the prime targets of people using fake Social Security cards are the very programs the Reagan administration is cutting back on. One example is Aid to Families with Dependent Children. The White House wants to cut $1.3 billion from this program.

Yet apparently this well-intended program is one of the easiest to crack with a counterfeit Social Security card. In California, one person used eight fake Social Security cards as identification and obtained benefits for 47 nonexistent children. This one chiseler got away with $300,000 before being caught.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Choosing sides between Argentina and Great Britain in the Falkland Islands crisis could pose a problem for White House deputy chief of staff Michael Deaver. His former public relations firm represented the government of Argentina ... The press has not exactly been knocking the doors down at the Commerce Department's National Telecommunications and Information Administration. But the director is taking precautions anyway: He has ordered his staff to avoid even casual conversations with reporters ... Because births are down, some experts are predicting that by the turn of the century there will be more jobs than people to fill them.

"Lowell Chiefs" Baseball School, c/o Jim Stone, Director, 1 University Avenue, University of Lowell, Lowell, Mass. 01854

With the spring sports schedule reaching the halfway mark this week, by all indications it looks like another successful program for Andover High School, according to Athletic Director Dick Swift.

"The teams are doing very well," he said, noting the following:

TRACK: "The track team is a solid team — both boys and girls." The boys record is 2-1 in high school meets, along with winning the Haverhill Invitational and the State Class A Relays. The girls are 3-0 in high school meets. They placed second in the State Class A Relays and sixth in the Lawrence Invitational. The boys and girls teams were scheduled to face Methuen yesterday.

BASEBALL: "They have a very good nucleus of members back from last year." The baseball team is 6-2 thus far and were set to play Austin Prep yesterday.

SOFTBALL: "They've got a veteran team. They hit the ball very well. They're a good club." The team was to face St. Mary's yesterday.

TENNIS: "They're (the boys team) in a building situation. They're going to be very competitive, but they're building." The boys are 4-2, and the girls team is 3-2 in-league, 4-2 overall. The girls were to play St. Mary's yesterday.

The golf team is off to a great year and was to tee off yesterday against

Lowell

But despite optimistic team reports this spring, there's something else on the horizon for Andover sports — a budget dilemma.

"We've been hurt," said Swift. "We've been cut."

The program is 14 coaches and 11 teams fewer this year. Two teams each of eighth-grade football, soccer, basketball and baseball were cut, along with sophomore football and basketball and the wrestling program.

"It will certainly hurt some kids," he said, "who could have an extra year to develop at their own level."

Next year, according to Swift, the sports program is on tap for an $83,000 budget reduction, which won't include the elimination of any more sports, but which will leave the program about $20,000 short of what's needed to run what the athletic director calls a "minimal program," with a reduction in the number of regular season and tournament games.

And Swift's estimation takes into account the continuation of the $20 per sport ($35 maximum) user fee implemented this year.

To make up for that $20,000 shortfall, the athletic director plans to ask individual sports booster groups to help out, and he also plans a September fundraiser.

If the money cannot be raised, Swift said either more funding might be requested from the Andover School Committee or user fees might be increased rather than to further cut the sports program.

Andover teams this year have enjoyed great success.

The boys basketball team was 18-2 and the girls 14-5. Other examples include girls indoor track (7-1), boys and girls skiing (15-5) and the boys MVC champion soccer team (12-1-1).

Yet Swift maintains that Andover coaches are "not under pressure to win."

"But hopefully by teaching well, the success will come," he said. "We want them to be competitive."

And through the years, Andover teams have been quite competitive.

The high school generated championship football teams from 1973-75, according to Swift. Last year, the basketball team made the Eastern Finals in post-season play. The gymnastic and track programs have been "immensely successful," he said, and the tennis and ski teams have been of championship caliber.

This year's baseball squad is off to a fine season.

"We'll go as far as our pitching will take us," said Coach Bill Vickers, calling his players an "experienced team."

Most players returned from last year, "but we lost two pitchers," he said. Bill Castleton is the only veteran pitcher among the five hurlers on the team. Brian Moriarty is sidelined with a bone spur. Six scrimmage games were snowed out this spring, and that didn't help matters.

"They've (the pitchers) done a decent job for us," explained Vickers.

The rest of the season could be tough, and as the coach put it, his team "can't make many mistakes" if they hope to top off the league.

"They're a great bunch of kids here," he

Warriors Netmen Near Top

The Andover High School boy's tennis team is currently sporting a 4-2 record and is riding up near the top of the Merrimack Valley Conference league standings.

After a pre-season schedule beginning with a loss at the hands of division 1 power Wakefield High School and two "snow" outs the Golden Warriors opened up their 1982 league campaign with a home match against the Greater Lowell Gryphons and overpowered their guests with a 5-0 victory. Next came two tough losses in a row: first to Wilmington, at the Wildcats home courts, by a score of 3-2; and then at home against the pre-season pick for league honors, the Austin Prep Cougars by a very respectable score of 3-2.

This followed with three straight victories. Haverhill was the first victim, bowing to the Andover netmen 5-0; Greater Lawrence was next, the victim of a 3-1 score with the second doubles match rained out; and last Friday the Golden Warriors rallied for a very hard-fought 3-2 victory over arch-rival Methuen High School by winning the third singles and both doubles matches after losing the first and second singles matches.

This year's team has been led by senior co-captains Chris Dyer and Bill Depper. Chris has compiled a personal record of 4-2 playing in the first single position while Bill's record is 3-1 in doubles and 0-1 singles. Other top varsity players include Gregg Eaton, a solid second singles player who possesses a 3-3 record and Mike Panteleo, playing the third singles position and riding a 3-1 record. The doubles team of Dave Bates and freshman Jeff Thomas have remained unbeaten this year at 4-0. Also seeing action in doubles is Tom Kannam, Mark Perkowski, Steve Perlberg, Tod Deery and Damon Dyer. Rounding out the squad are Dave Donovan, Gregg McAnern and Jeff Kennedy.

The Golden Warrior netmen play them next home match on Friday at Recreational Park, when they host the always tough Red Raiders of Central Catholic.

said. "They hate to lose. They know what it takes to win."

The keys to success for the Andover sports program, according to Swift, include a healthy sports philosophy, good coaches and a great number of athlete-participants.

"We have a lot of participants, and participants will bring success," he said, adding, "We have good teachers who teach well. A good teacher is a good coach."

Also basic to the Andover sports philosophy is encouraging athletes to participate in many sports rather than just concentrating on one.

"All-around athletes make the best athletes," said Swift. "The great athletes have been all-around athletes."

He explained that at the junior high and high school level, it's more valuable for students to "experience different kinds of sports."

"The multi-sport athlete is just as well-prepared to play college (sports)," Swift

The Sox added one more in their half of the fourth on a long home run to right by Greg DeVoir, his first of the season. The final two Sox runs came in the sixth on a walk and key singles by Slavin and Michael Manning.

Steve DeVoir started on the mound for the Sox and mowed down Indian hitters through the first three frames, giving up only one hit and fanning five. Kevin Foley came on in the fourth and blanked the Indians the rest of the way to preserve the win for DeVoir.

Jimmy Flowers started on the mound for the Indians and set the Sox down in order over the first two innings before running

Undermanned All-Stars Win

By Rick Harrison

The undermanned Andover All-Stars eighth and ninth grade basketball team, missing three key performers including two starters, used adversity to their advantage as they put together a superb team effort enroute to a convincing 75-49 triumph over Belmont in the second round of the Arlington Spring Basketball Festival last week.

The victory pushed Andover into the quarterfinal round earlier this week, where they were scheduled to face the Holland Community School of Dorchester-Roxbury at the Arlington Boys' Club gym.

Andover won the game despite the fact it was missing high scorer Tim Perry, all-around standout Billy Lane and solid performer Steve Gemmell.

Belmont took a 2-0 lead in the opening seconds of play, but Andover proceeded to run off nine straight points enroute to a commanding 24-13 advantage after one quarter.

The locals built the lead to 40-25 at half-time and 57-35 after three periods.

The well-balanced attack in the opening stanza was led by Dan Sheehan with 7 points, Doug Rotondi 6, Joe Hart 5 and Chris Bartley 4.

Andover's prowess at the free throw line helped in the first half, as the winners swished 10-of-11 charities, and both Hart and Rotondi were intimidating presences under the boards.

The ability of Sheehan and Bartley to break the Belmont press with relative ease prevented the losers from making any serious runs at the Andover lead in the second half.

Hart collected nine points in the third quarter, while both he and Sheehan pumped through six in the fourth period.

Hart led four Andover players into double figures with 22 points, while Sheehan added 21, Rotondi 14 and Bartley 11.

Beau Jones scored five points and had some strong moves to the basket, while Larry Aiello flipped through one fieldgoal.

Hart and Rotondi blocked a half-dozen shots apiece, Sheehan passed out seven assists, and Aiello was a rebounding force with many caroms off the defensive boards.

Contributing a strong defensive effort and several assists was Scott Wilkins.

Chris Donahue and Doug Ackerly powered the Belmont offense with 14 and 10 points respectively.

first three places in male and female categories.

The 6.2 mile race will start at the West Jr. High School up Shawshen Road to Lowell Street going west and turn left onto Lovejoy Road. The course winds back along Dascomb Road onto Andover Street continuing onto red Spring Road to Shawshen Road and finishing back at West Junior High School. The route will have mile markers/timers and will be monitored by Emergency Citizen's Rescue Team (REACT). Shower facilities will be available for runners. Refreshments will be served after the race. Sue Luby To Address Runners

Girls and women of all ages and abilities are invited to attend the May 11 meeting of Fast Women, the first running club for women in the Merrimack Valley and surrounding communities. An invitation is expended to those who would like to start a running program or meet other women who share an interest in running.

Sue Luby, owner of Sue Luby's Yoga and Body Control Center, is this month's speaker. Her Yoga-Therapy technique is enthusiastically endorsed by medical doctors, psychiatrists, psychologists and athletic coaches primarily because of its preventive and therapeutic nature. She has been teaching Hatha Yoga and other systems of body awareness for the past 19 years throughout the United States and Canada. Through her intensive study, research and experience, Sue Luby has formulated a unique and individualized technique. This technique is fundamental to an in-depth therapeutic approach to athletic conditioning and stress-related problems such as bad backs, breathing difficulties and related musculo-skeletal disorders. Luby will conduct an informal running clinic so women should come dressed in warm-up suits, leotards or shorts.

The meeting will be held at the Lawrence Savings Bank in Shawshen Square, Andover, at 7:30 p.m. The bank is located on Rte. 28 (Main Street) at the intersection of Rte. 133. Refreshments will be served. New members are welcome.

into a streak of wildness in the third. Brian Costello and Matt Pothier finished things up on the mound for the tribe. Costello led the offensive efforts for the Indians picking up their only two hits, both solid singles to center. John "Cornbread" Glynn turned in a number of fielding gems at third for the Indians, handling four chances errorlessly. Pothier played his usual fine game at short. Greg DeVoir and Matt Gibson paced the Sox hitting attack with two hits each with Pay, Landers, Manning and Slavin adding one apiece. Steve Conchiglia helped the Sox cause with some fine play at second.

Orioles 14 - Yankees 4

Chris Concemi and Allan Reeder belted home runs to pave the way for a 14-4 Oriole victory over the Yankees. In the first inning the Orioles erupted for five runs. Chris Nelson walked. Kevin Handerson doubled. Allan Reeder doubled scoring both Nelson and Handerson. Concemi singled. Geoff Wood doubled home Reeder and Hugh Maginnis' single scored both Concemi and Wood.

The Yankees scored three runs in the third. Pat Breen, Tom Tormey and Tim Smith had consecutive doubles, followed by Mike Giammasi and Pat Hayes singles.

The Orioles' Concemi's homer was a solo shot in the third. Reeder's homer (his second of the young season) came with Nelson aboard in the fourth.

The Orioles put the game out of reach in the sixth with six runs. Pat Kelley and Reeder doubles were the key hits.

Handerson and Concemi pitched effectively for the Orioles, while Joey Tavilla and Brian Davies shared mound duties for the Yankees.

Breen and Giammasi were defensive standouts for the Yankees as were Orioles' catcher Craig Knight and outfielder Chip Stella with his first major league put out.

Orioles 9 - Indians 4

Chris Concemi and Geoff Wood led the Orioles to their second victory by beating the Indians 9-4.

In the first inning the Orioles scored three runs on RBI base hits by Concemi, Wood and Hugh Maginnis. The Indians countered with two unearned runs in the second. The Orioles came back to regain the three run advantage with two runs of their own in the second. Chris Nelson's sharp single was the key hit. Ironically, both Oriole rallies began after two were out.

Oriole pitchers Maginnis and Kelley proceeded to blank the Indians for the next three innings. In the fifth Kelley was aided by a neat Reeder-Henderson-Wood double play.

In the Oriole fifth Concemi and Wood doubles (five RBIs between them) keyed a four-run rally to put the game out of reach.

Matt Pothier led the Indians with two base hits. John Glynn and Ted Andry (double) made offensive contributions. Jim Flowers and Brian Costello were the Indian hurriers.

White Sox 5 - Yankees 7

Pat Breen pitched and batted the Yankees to a 7-5 victory over the White Sox. He pitched the last 3 2/3 innings allowing one hit and striking out nine batters. At the plate Breen went two-for-three with two RBIs. The Yankees won the game on three unearned runs in the fourth inning against tough luck loser Mark Shwetz. Andy Peck led the White Sox's attack going two-for-three with one RBI.

Nature Walks

The Peabody Museum of Salem will begin a new series of four Living Landscapes nature walks on Wednesday, May 5. The walks, scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. on successive Wednesdays, will be led by Sarah Fraser Robbins from the museum's education department.

The first of these two hour walks will visit Paradise, located in Beverly Farms to view woodlands and gardens belonging to Robert Edwards. The gardens received the Massachusetts Horticultural Society's Silver Medal in 1976 for the harmonious blending and use of unusual plant material. The grounds include a formal garden, rose garden, amphitheatre and sculptures by Anna Coleman Ladd.

They 'Channel' Efforts Differently And Better

By John P. Sawyer

They do things a little differently, a little better.

It's their creative approach to problem-solving that makes Channel Building Company, Inc., so successful.

"We're pretty active in this area," said Robert J. Palumbo, marketing vice-president of the Andover firm located at 2 Elm Square in the Musgrove Building.

Channel, a full-service construction organization offering comprehensive construction, design, engineering and real estate expertise, is not only busy throughout New England, but also has its work cut out right around here.

The Physical Sciences, Inc., building project off Frontage Road and the Bay Bank renovation and addition in Elm Square, are two Andover sites currently under construction by Channel.

The firm is also about to begin on the new SpectraMetrics headquarters and research and manufacturing facility in the Haverhill Industrial Park where Channel has already built 11 other projects.

"It's nice being close to home," said Palumbo.

Channel puts together all the experts needed, either in-house or from the outside, depending upon the need, to formulate design and solve construction problems and provide early and accurate budget estimates.

"We're a design builder," he said. "We provide a whole team of people..."

They call it team construction. And they do it quite well, from projects ranging from first-class suburban office buildings, corporate headquarters and banks, to food processing plants, electronics manufacturing, heavy manufacturing, high technology assembly and research, specialized warehousing and materials handling facilities, recreation facilities and historical restorations.

Channel was recently named a finalist in the "Build Massachusetts" competition, sponsored by the Associated General Contractors of Massachusetts, for the company's design and construction of New England Apple Products' (makers of Very-Fine fruit and juice products) bottling plant in Littleton, Mass.

Not only recognized for its excellence in design, Channel was also cited for creative and cost-effective solutions to unusual design and construction problems associated with building the bottling plant.

These were:

SANITATION STANDARDS: At a fruit juice processing facility, cleanliness and low maintenance are important. To solve these problems, walls were installed that provided low maintenance features and could be easily washed down with steam hoses at the end of each work day.

ACID CONTENT: Fruit juices are corrosive. Walls were treated with an epoxy coating to make it resistant to acid attack.

AESTHETICS: The new plant had to be connected with the warehouse located across the street, but the complex had to remain aesthetically pleasing to neighbors. The owners suggested an underground tunnel, according to Palumbo. But a Lexan-covered bridge was instead recommended. "As it turns out," he said, "it's quite an attractive bridge."

Robert J. Palumbo

ECONOMY: Energy conservation was requested by the owner. A pre-cast concrete structural system for the building and core-insulated, pre-cast concrete double tees for the side walls were selected. Foam insulation in the core of the pre-cast tees made the walls extremely energy-efficient.

Every building project, such as the fruit juice bottling plant, presents its own special problems that require special solutions.

In Kingston, Mass., Channel built the R.S. Means Company (publishers of manuals to compute construction costs) into the side of a hill that sloped into a gully. The hill helped to insulate the building. And instead of filling in the gully, a foot bridge was constructed and a cranberry flume was used to regulate the water flow, making the site attractive.

In New Boston, N.H., national headquarters for Frey Associates (a computer software firm) is being built into the side of a mountain slope for energy and security reasons and to provide a panoramic view.

Closer to home, in Andover's downtown area, the Bay Bank building is being renovated and a four-story brick addition is being constructed in the rear of the site. Palumbo calls it a "complex problem" because of the unusual shape of the lot. Occupancy of the new building is expected this fall.

New England Apple Products Building Channel's award-winning structure

Physical Sciences, Inc., (energy and laser research firm) will be "an attractive building," according to Channel's marketing vice-president. "Every tree that could be saved is saved," he said. Palumbo noted that in this case, the owner requested that 40 offices be the same size and each contain a window. Thus the perimeter of the building was lengthened by constructing the building in an irregular shape. Occupancy of Physical Sciences, Inc., located near Raytheon, is expected in late June.

In Haverhill, the SpectraMetrics facility (leader in health care technology and scientific instruments) will feature such architectural designs as curved corners, continuous bands of tinted glass and a smooth, high gloss insulated panel exterior to reflect the building's technological use. The back of the site, which slopes down to the Merrimack River, will be landscaped and feature picnic areas for employees.

While each building project requires its own special solution, the nuts and bolts of designing apply to any project Channel undertakes.

The biggest factor in determining the shape of a building is the shape of the site upon which it is located, according to Palumbo. Square and flat sites are not often encountered in New England, where differences in topography and vegetation force designers to deal with the elements.

"We try to make the most of what nature has given us," he explained.

In addition, the owner's needs and budget are a great determining factor.

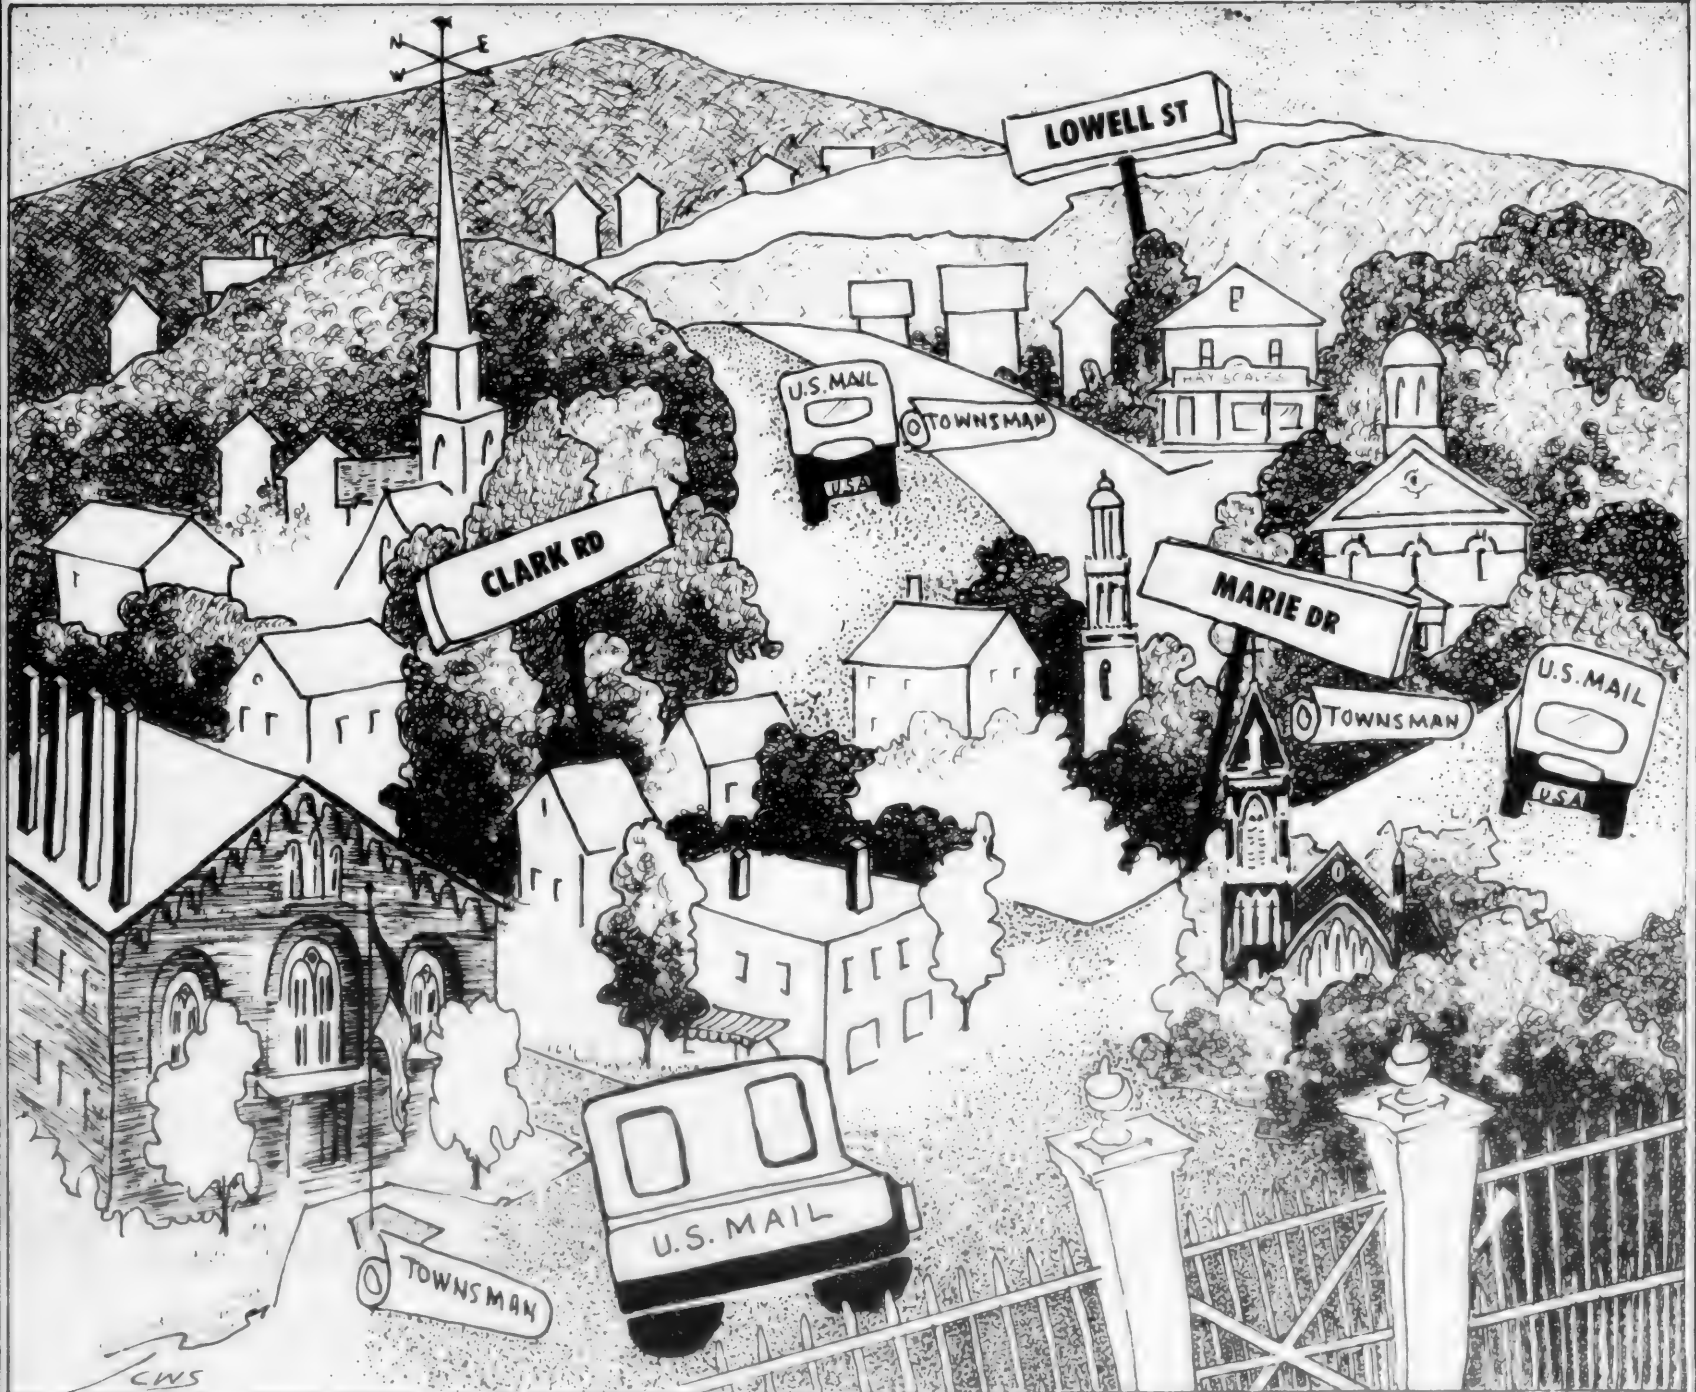

"We try to design the most they can get out of that budget," he said. "This approach can give you the most for your construction dollar."

Channel Building Company, Inc., was formed and incorporated as a general contractor in 1964 when the company's founder, Robert E. Webster, left his position with a major international construction firm. His high values and ethical standards are basic to the organization's business philosophy.

Channel's employees are taught to view each project from a client's perspective—a "How would I do it if this were mine?" attitude is the guide.

Channel maintains two branch operations—one in Quincy, and one in Manchester, N.H. They market the company's services in those areas and provide job supervision, project management and material and subcontract purchasing. Other administrative functions, such as accounting, advertising, promotion and estimating are located in the Andover central office.

Field operations are located in Salem, N.H., central to the company's market area. The field force, ranging from 50-75 people, handle concrete work, carpentry and steel erection.

Industrial Financing Approved

Three proposed business and industrial development projects — the expansion of two existing industries and the rehabilitation of some Shawsheen Village property — got the selectmen's go-ahead Monday night.

The selectmen unanimously approved requests from three businesses for industrial revenue financing totalling nearly $6 million. The Andover Development and Industrial Commission recommended approval of all three requests, according to commission member Susan Tucker.

With the selectmen's approval, the three businesses will now be able to apply for low-interest industrial revenue bonds from the state Industrial Development Finance Authority. There is no cost to the town.

Standard Duplicating Machines Corp. of 10 Connector Road is seeking $1.750 million in IDFA financing to expand its operation with the addition of a 40,000 square foot warehouse distribution center.

The Planning Board has approved plans for the new building, according to corporation officials, and it will be built on a nine-acre site nearby, but not adjoining the company's existing plant.

Developer Gus Sheehy was next in line, winning approval for his $2.145 million plan to renovate the Yankee Milk and former Hardy Brush properties on Haverhill Street into office space. The Hardy Brush building is vacant, while Yankee Milk plans to lease space in the renovated building from Sheehy, according to the developer.

Sheehy said he will check with the Andover Historical Commission before working on the buildings, because they are within the Shawsheen Village historic district.

Finally, Industrial Materials Technology of River Road will ask for $2 million in financing to expand its operation by adding some new, highly sophisticated equipment. The company, which manufactures equipment used in medical procedures, will not expand its plant.

Traditional Calendar Accepted

The school committee this week accepted in principle a "traditional type" school calendar for next year, with related discussion scheduled to take place between Schools Superintendent Kenneth Seifert and the Andover Education Association.

The calendar before school committee members Tuesday night includes two days of teacher preparation Sept. 1-2 and the opening of school Tuesday, Sept. 7. Thanksgiving recess would begin Nov. 24 (a half day), and schools would reopen Monday, Nov. 29. Schools would close at the end of the day on Dec. 23 for winter vacation, to reopen on Monday, Jan. 3, 1983.

February vacation would be Feb. 21-25. Spring vacation would be April 18-22. June 10 would be High School graduation, and schools would close for the summer Thursday, June 23.

The following would be days off: Sept. 6, Labor Day; Oct. 11, Columbus Day; Nov. 11, Veteran's Day; March 28, inservice day for teachers; April 1, Good Friday; May 30, Memorial Day.

The following days would be early release days for students and inservice half-days for teachers: Oct. 4, Nov. 1, Jan. 24, May 9.

DUKE, high school junior custodian, effective January 22, 1982. Duke, a custodian in the Andover school system since March 1971, has retired under the provisions of ordinary disability.

The following were appointed to coaching positions for the spring season, 1981-82 school year:

PATRICIA BARRETT, West Junior High, assistant track coach, $337; JAY DARRIN, West Junior High, boys track coach, $972; LORI HUMLAK, West Junior High, girls track coach, $642.

The committee granted a leave of absence to GAIL SCHULZ, West Elementary Instructional Aide. Schulz, employed since November 1977, requested an unpaid personal leave of absence from May 3, 1982, to the end of the current school year.

All votes on personnel matters this week were unanimous, except for those involving re-election of teachers or election to tenure of teachers in the positions of program advisors. Committeewoman Susan Poore voted against these individuals, only because of her opposition to the position of program advisor.

Program On Back At YMCA

The Andover-North Andover YMCA will offer the Y's Way to a Healthy Back program starting Monday, May 10. Dr. Hans Kraus designed the program to primarily relieve back pain, increase flexibility and ease tension. It has been approved by the Medical Advisory Committee of the Y.M.C.A. of Greater New York.

The special exercise, utilizing the Kraus-Weber test to determine minimal muscular strength and flexibility, is composed of a series of movements that begins with relaxation, then flexibility, mild muscular strengthening and returning to muscle relaxation techniques.

"More than 80 percent of the participants previously enrolled in our program found relief or complete elimination of back pain," according to Heidi Wolfman, certified instructor of the program.

"If you are among the many who complain of back pain and your condition is not caused by organic disease, but by muscles that are weak or tense or both, then the Y.M.C.A. program may be of significant help to you," stated Mrs. Wolfman.

The six-week program starts May 10 and ends June 16. It will be offered Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. Registrations are being accepted at the Andover-North Andover YMCA Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

For further information, call the YMCA, 165 Haverhill St., Andover.

INTRODUCING THE WORLD'S ONLY TURBO THAT GOES FASTER ON LESS GAS.

Until now, no turbo could deliver power and economy at the same time.

Because, to protect itself, it had to have its boost pressure limited at the factory.

Which, of course, limited its performance on the road.

The new Saab APC Turbo, on the other hand, automatically adjusts boost as you drive. The resulting increase in efficiency gives it what no other turbo has: better mileage and power. Simultaneously.

Plus throttle response unmatched by any other turbo on the road, which a short test drive will immediately demonstrate.

So, while all turbos are touted as giving better mileage and power, only the Saab APC Turbo actually does both at once.

Which, when you think of it, is the only way you'd really want it.

Saab 900 5-speed Turbo: (19) EPA estimated mpg, 31 estimated highway mpg. Remember, use these figures for comparison only. Mileage varies with speed, weather and trip length. Actual highway mileage will probably be less. Saab 900 5-speed APC Turbo: (21) EPA estimated mpg, 34 estimated highway mpg.

The Nevins Difference

The Nevins Home is different in that we treat our staff with the same respect that we expect them to grant to their patients.

At Nevins we think your benefits are for your benefit and to utilize responsibly. For example, you can use sick time to care for a sick school-age child when a babysitter is unavailable.

At Nevins, we listen to our staff, and respond to their needs and ideas. When you work at Nevins, your supervisor will have had experience in the job you are doing, and will be a working member of your team, not the clipboard-toting type. We appreciate quality performance and reward it with well-thought-out, meaningful policies and benefits.

And at Nevins, you'll be part of our effort to develop innovative programs as we move toward our goal: Striving for Excellence.

WHO ARE THE "LENDERS"

In past columns, you have probably noted the words "lending institutions." Just who or what are these lending institutions who finance home loans?

Historically, the nation's major suppliers of residential mortgages have been financial institutions such as savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks, co-operative banks and commercial banks. They have accounted for as much as 87 percent of total residential financing in years when deposit savings have been plentiful, and as little as 70 percent in a year such as 1969 when new savings deposits fell to a very low level and credit generally was scarce.

Life insurance companies also play a significant role in the residential mortgage market, although their participation has declined considerably since the 1950's as they have shifted funds to higher investment yields.

Other mortgage lenders include Federal and State agencies, pension funds, real-estate investment trusts and individuals. Savings and loan associations are by far the largest source of mortgage money of all the above. At the end of 1974 they held almost half of all outstanding mortgage debt.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Punchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Consensus Indicates User Fees Will Remain The Same

Although no vote was taken, a consensus of the school committee this week seems to agree — user fees probably shouldn't be increased next year.

But without a fee hike for athletics, according to Schools Superintendent Kenneth Seifert, a surplus in the revolving fund will be exhausted, and that would present a different situation regarding sports for the following year.

Committeeman Donald Robb said he was concerned that if the current athletic fee is not increased, a much larger increase might be in store a few years down the road.

The school system's current user fee policy, approved August 11, 1981, includes a $35 charge for instrumental music lessons, with a $50 maximum per family, and a $20 per sport fee for athletics ($35 maximum per student and $50 maximum per family).

School Committee Chairman Richard Neal put the question to fellow committeemen — should the user fees be changed?

His own opinion was no.

"Andover's fee is in the range" of most other school systems, he said, noting that to raise the charge would put this town's fees higher than others. Neal said he wanted to keep the user fees at the current level, but added, "I want to see the programs (for which the fees are collected) continue."

The chairman explained that he hoped fundraising groups would come forth to help out with the financial squeeze. Robb agreed that fundraisers could offset any large increases in user fees in the future.

Committeeman Robert Smith suggested a possible minimal fee for intramurals. He said the cost to the school system for intramural coaches is about $10,000.

Susan Poore suggested that possibly the maximum user fee charge per family could be dropped, except in cases where there is need, in which money from booster organizations might be applied.

This was the first year of user fees in Andover. Student participation in interscholastic sports has dropped off thus far from 1980-81 levels, much of that decrease in the junior high schools, where budgets were cut.

There are 131 less music participants so far this year, when comparing the number of participants last year and this year at the Shawsheen, Bancroft, South, West Elementary, Sanborn, West Jr. High, East Jr. High and the High School.
